Wounds International 2011 GLOBAL WOUND CARE CONFERENCE

INFORM EDUCATE IMPROVE

The first Wounds International Conference will provide an interactive shared learning experience, tailored to meet the needs of a multicultural audience with varied levels of experience and access to resources.

This conference will bring together the global wound care community to address the international and regional challenges of driving wound treatment and prevention towards a true clinical specialisation, with the aim of engaging a wide range of stakeholders, including those in government and policy makers.

To achieve this ambitious goal and to help wound care providers in different countries around the globe, the conference will include interactive sessions, ensuring maximum delegate participation. This will be facilitated by sessions providing content that will IMPROVE, INFORM AND EDUCATE all who attend this event.

IMPROVE: Sessions to address how we can improve the provision of wound management services either through relationships, methods or systems leading to the recognition of wound care as a clinical specialty.

INFORM: Sessions to provide new information from free papers and made easy interactive sessions aimed at providing guidance, experience and relevant tools for practice.

EDUCATE: Sessions for speakers to share their clinical experiences across a variety of wound topics with input from across the globe highlighting variations in practice across different geographies.

This conference is just the beginning. Wounds International will provide free online access to content, tools and resources after the event to facilitate an innovative approach to a global shared learning experience. Our mission is your mission: to better equip wound care professionals around the globe to IMPROVE, INFORM and EDUCATE their colleagues and, in particular, those with decision-making power.
